Importance of the individual lies in his part for the fulfillment of the whole. His is the beginning of a separate but essential piece of the puzzle; a world to exist within the boundaries of another world encompassing it. The assemblage of the school depicts a unique society yet its structure conforms to those of others all working towards a common goal—relating its knowledge for the nurturing of a new society. Simultaneously, the enlightened component of the school alliance reaches out in other directions for diversified benefits. Each example repeats a familiar story, the formation of the community—the next step.

Mel,
It's been pretty cool at the door
this year. I love you, and Jody, and your mother. I'll probably see you a bit this summer. Keep me in mind when you're a SENIOR and I'm just a sophomore. Bye.

the environment matures

a group is established

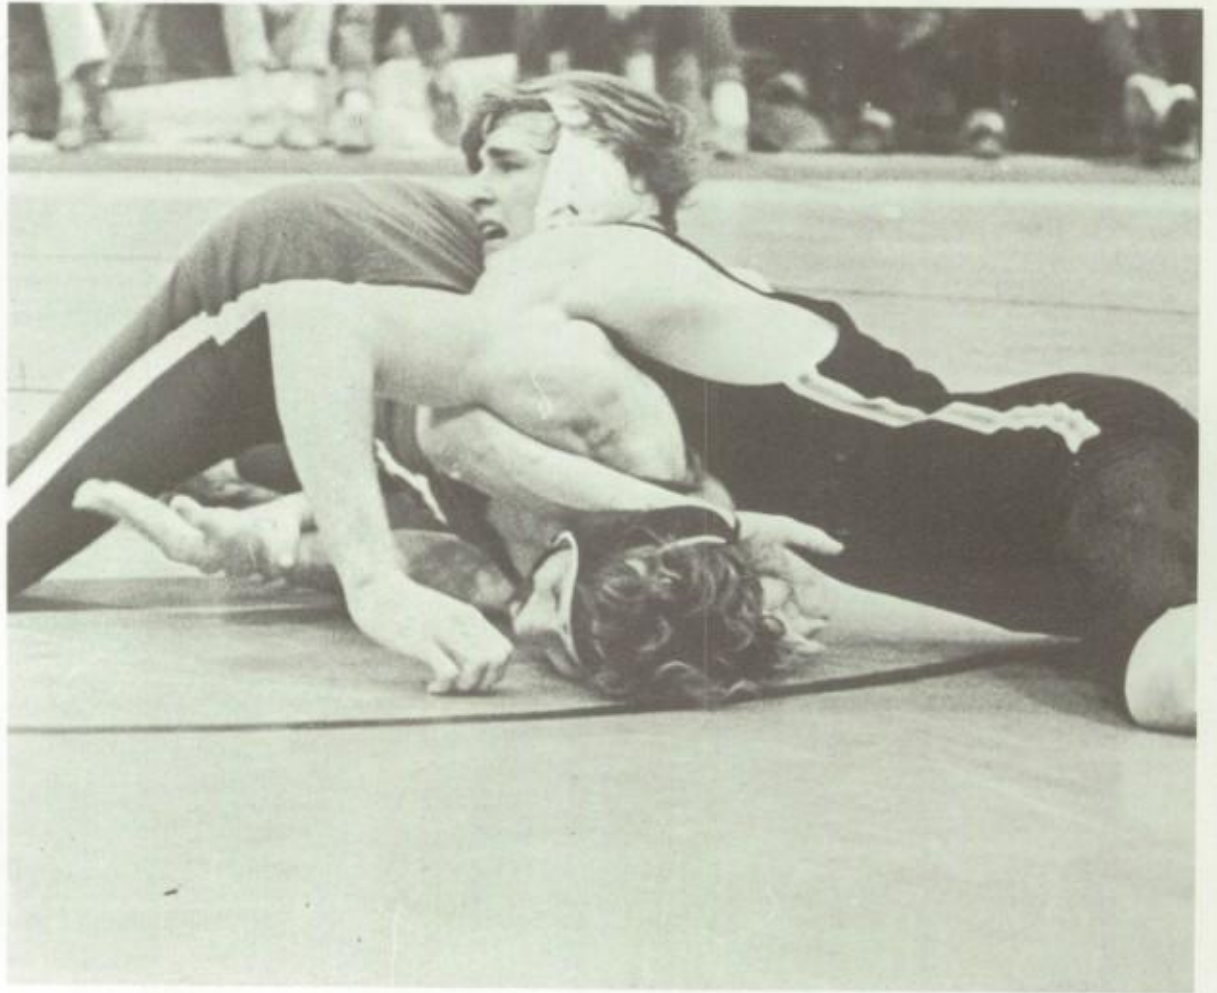

Arrangements of a number with common characteristics, a group of students under one teacher, or an associated body pursuing a study together formulates the class. This new subdivision seeks to aid each of its constituents as it is intertwined within a group itself. A cycle prevails as each is an ingredient for the other. Values are secured and as similiar interests become conjoined, like associations invite each other and synonomous ideals are erected. Our portotypes lay a basis for the foundation of our likes and dislikes. With these things established we meet people who become our friends and aid us to succeed in our new acquaintances. The pattern is visible and the cycle continues to revolve.

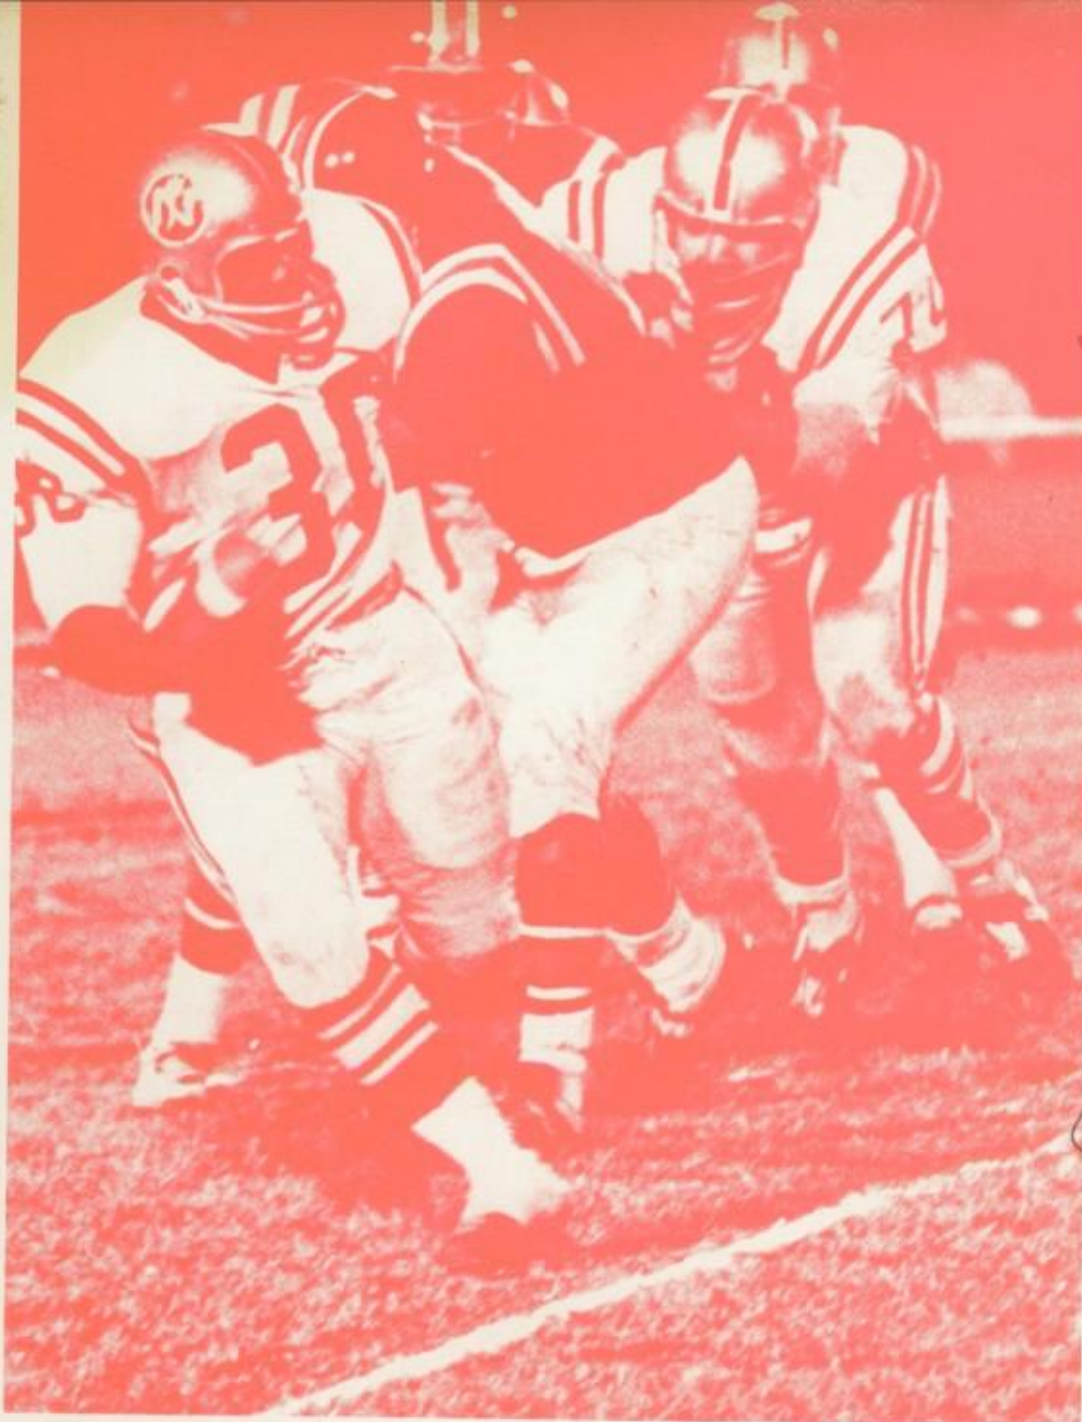

"Melanie,"
It was great being in Mr. Mc-Edwards' class together, except that you got in a lot less trouble than I did. You made a good teacher's pet though. Have a nice summer & I'll see you. Love,

WE PROGRESS TOWARDS identity with a determination to succeed, yet conflict will BRING failure as harmony will aid in SUCCESS

Now we know which way to direct our desire for success. As the energy is set in motion, we are associated with an identity and become a more important link in our world. To unite with the conforming ideals of society is the easiest path as it is accompanied with the harmony of the majority agreement. An individualistic route brings certain conflict which if not overcome results in a forfeiture of the goal. Yet, the course adapted for the individual within society's rules should be pursued in order to complete a diverse and well-rounded community and establish a competent competitor for the competition.

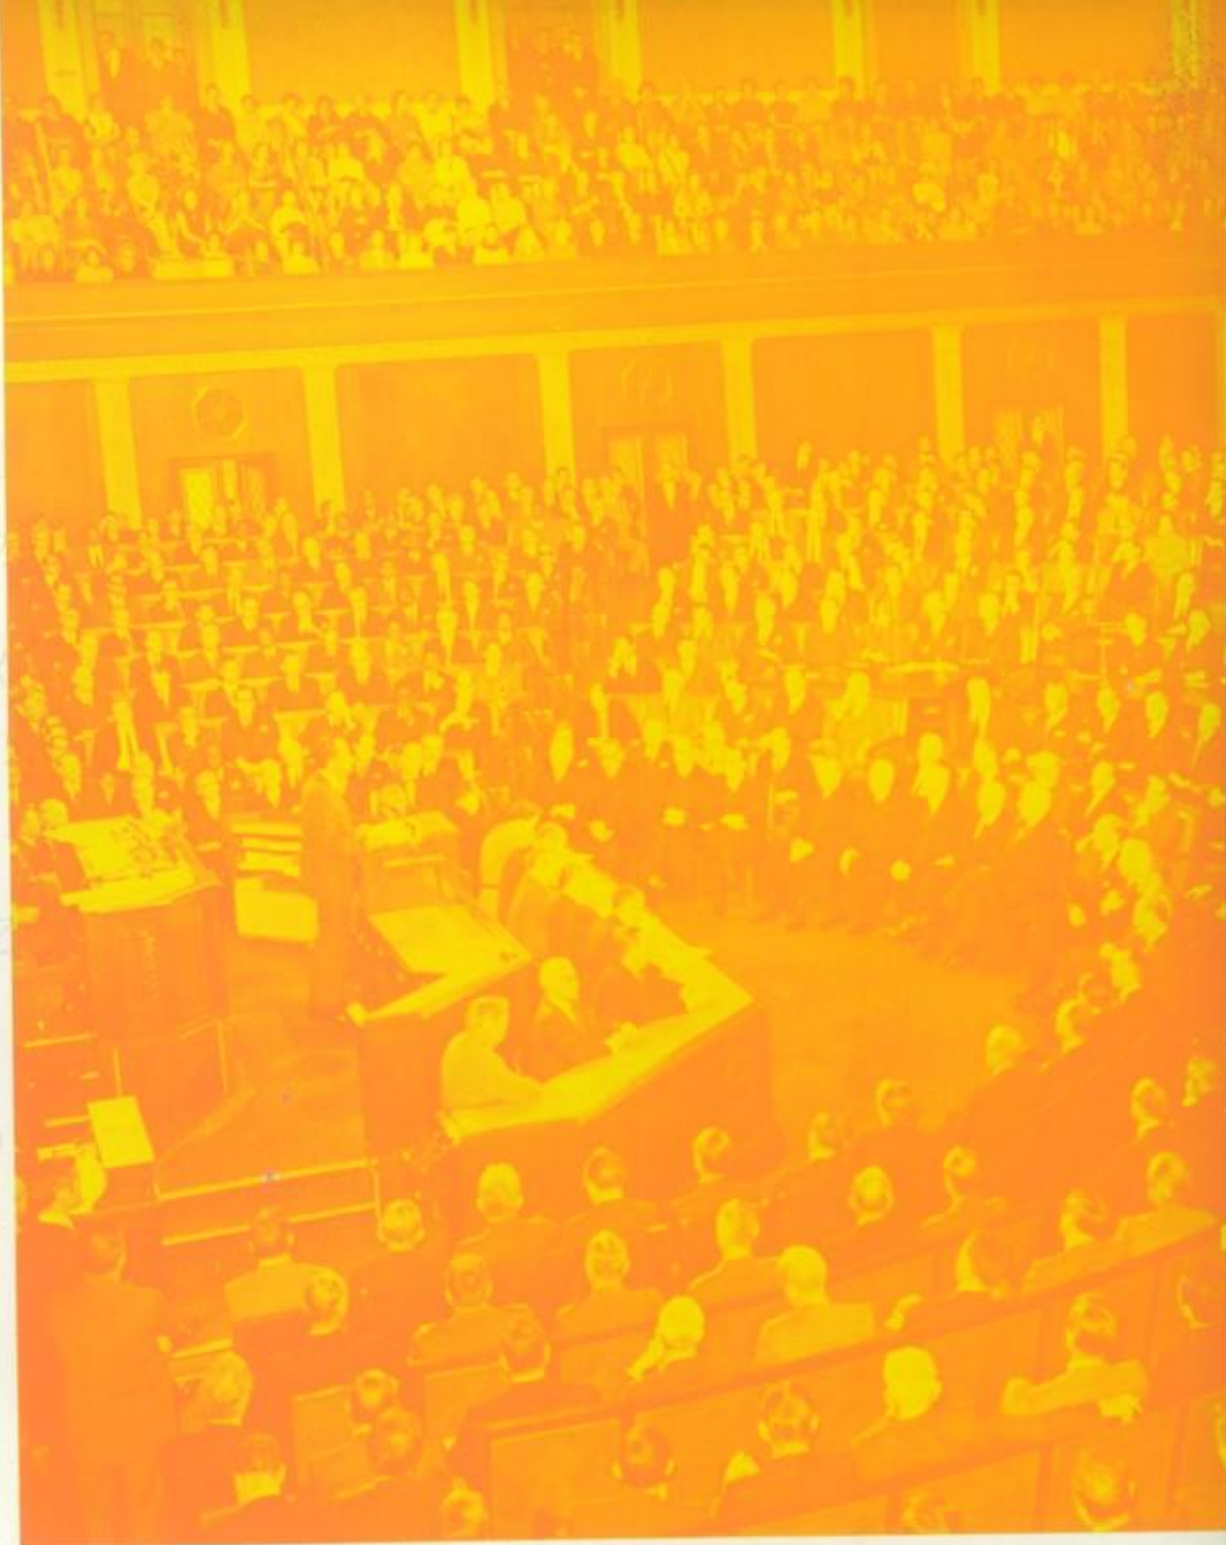

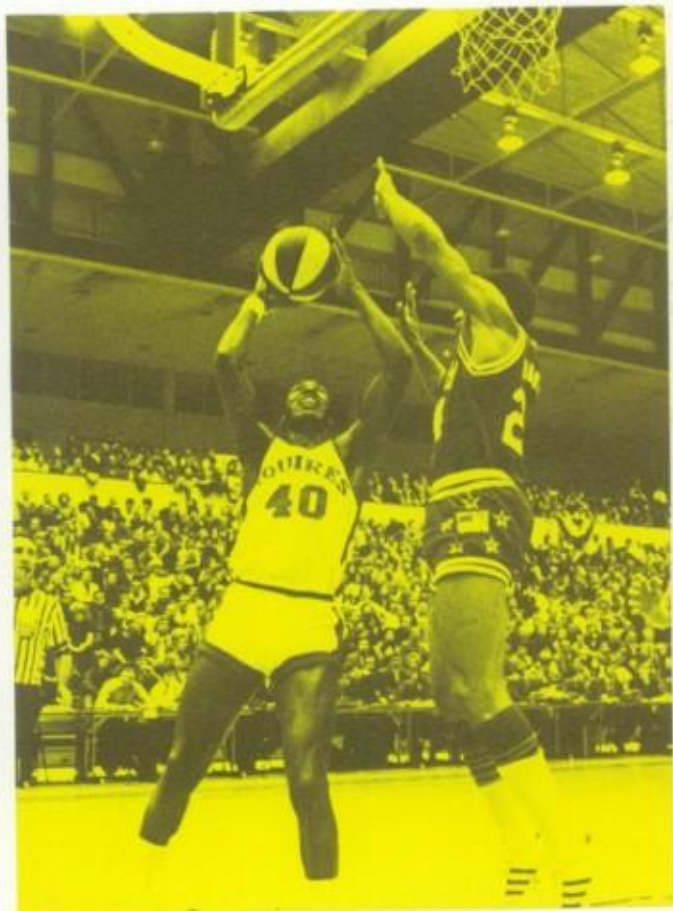

Melanie,
 It's been fun
 getting to know you this year. You're a real kook. Never forget all the bored expressions we exchanged during
 one of Mr. Still's
 "sermonettes". Have a fun summer.
 Good luck next year!

And then there must be one group in charge of it all and it must have a leader. Procedure is inherited for organized patterns of action. For the Congress, parliamentary procedure is utilized and this same method of applying a set of rules prevails in the society surrounding the school. In each case there must be one who stands aside from the crowd to lead, to move in advance of, and take precedence over the group so as to maintain order. Within his talent to preserve this order among life he earns a respect and yet even though he is just as mortal in his world as we in ours, the followers mourn his termination. But here will always be someone to take his place and a group to replace his group as the pattern of a world within a world remains in motion.

the class of seventy - one

The organization, entitled the class of '71, assumed their position in school government with the eminent authority required to maintain their reputable past. In all phases of school life each Senior carried out his part in displaying his leadership and experience, which in its totality brought about a successful Senior class. Again, the Seniors enjoyed their unique privileges such as senior dress up day, their own parking area, popsicles on specified days, senior night for football and basketball, a new senior lounge, and the greatest privilege of all—being able to call himself a Senior. This year an excursion to New York was planned for the Easter Holidays which helped unite the class for a common cause. Some of its money making projects included raffles and donut sales to finance the Senior class trip. Finally the climax of four years at CHS prepared its graduating class for involvement in a new world within a world.

mid - year change in administration makes MR. MOUNIE SECOND - IN - COMMAND

Cooperation between students and administration seemed to be the idea stressed, as students, especially seniors, were given more privileges in return for the responsibility of not abusing them. The administration found itself compromising with student demands to change the dress code, with the result of slacks on the "femmes fatales" of CHS, including some faculty members. The administration also experienced change within its ranks, with Mr. Mounie, as assistant to the principal, taking over the duties of Assistant Principal Mr. Belton at mid-year.

(top) IN HIS THIRD year at Churchland, Principal Mr. Walter T.H. Galliford received a B.A. from the University of North Carolina and a M.Ed. from the University of Virginia. (bottom left) Coming in at the middle of the year to "save the day," Mr. John Mounie acted as assistant to Mr. Galliford during the second semester. (bottom right) Assistant Principal, Mr. Philip Belton, has received a M.A. from Columbia University and a B.A. from North Carolina College.

office proves to BE BUSIEST CENTER at chs

A world of experience from the general office met the numerous problems of day to day school life with unsurmountable ease. Through all the inquiries, decisions, money affairs, and hustle-bustle of "normal" school activities, the office force always managed to provide the needed information for the students, teachers, and administration. A continuous flow of solved problems and answered questions was the result of the never ending work of the busiest center at Churchland.

Guidance focuses on individual attention

Focusing on individual attention was the chief objective of the guidance department as they tackled the demanding task of aiding the student in preparation for tomorrow. This included not only scheduling but also helping with college and vocational problems. The guidance counselors informed students and their parents of curriculum objectives and helped them to interpret scores of the tests required by the state board of education and for college entrance. Counseling information was also given on career preparation for the vocational student.

MISS BUTT RETURNS TO CHS AS LIBRARIAN after seventeen years

Due to an increase in teacher assignments there was a tremendous outflow of books from the library. An efficient overnight lending system of all reference material had decreased the possibility of being left on the short end of the stick. Students aided by a qualified library staff were able to accumulate information on all areas of interest. Also, our new librarian, Miss Butt, was always on hand to help the frustrated individuals with their last minute assignments. Even under all this tension the library remained a drop-in place for students.

standard assignments keep students occupied

Once again the English Department is placing more emphasis on literature within the upper classes, while in the lower classes the fundamentals of grammar are stressed. Classes are made more interesting due to the usage of visual aids, films, and lectures. Such standard assignments as term papers, compositions, themes, and dramatic readings as well, helped to keep the students occupied at all times.

social studies department promotes student involvement in outside world

Programs of the Social Studies Department ranged from history and geography, to psychology. To promote student involvement with the outside world, the department sponsored a mock election, with an assembly held before voting. new consumer math course helps fill student needs

With the introduction of a new consumer math course, the Mathematics Department continued its effort of meeting the needs of all students, from basic math to senior analysis and calculus. The new course, offered even to students with algebra and geometry credits, included the study of income tax, interest rates, charge account plans, and basic economics. No longer did students have to ask, "But how can I use this?" while questioning the practicality of what they were learning. The use of educational TV for the first time by the Math Department also helped to broaden the scope of learning and prove that numbers really are "nice fellows."

enrollment drops

Lack of interest in science at the upper class levels became apparent as chemistry enrollment dropped, cutting the number of classes from four to two, and senior biology disappeared entirely from the scene. Much speculation by the Science Department brought no satisfactory reason for this decrease. The courses offered embodied the same material as before, with Chem Study in its fourth year, BSCS Biology and IPS Science in their third. Students were motivated to get most out of their texts, with text book revisions of this year causing all books to be purchased brand new next year, while teachers awaited new and "no-answers-written-in" editions.

'71 sees end of German at chs

Foreign languages including Latin, Spanish, German II, and French offer a spicy variety to CHS students. The students learn the special forms of grammar and linguistics which could come in handy in their journeys abroad. Learning devices coupled with activity, enjoyment, and a motivating subject make any foreign language ideal for CHS students.

ART, BAND, CHORUS add "fine art" to school life

A shade of paint, not quite right. A sour note, or even laryngitis. All problems normally found in the Art Department, Band or Chorus. But not often found at CHS. Newcomer, Mr. Richard Dill, was determined that there wouldn't be any sour notes in his band.

Students were heard practicing early in the mornings and late in the afternoons. (Why bother to go home at night?) The Chorus entertained our school and others with their fine programs. In the spring, students were treated to a bit of "fine art" with a school art show presented by the art classes.

Baking, building, sewing, drawing plans—all areas of applied skills made available by the Manual Arts Department. This year the department has decreased to only two teachers, making it one of the smallest Manual Arts departments ever seen at Churchland. Through courses designed to help the student gain experience in craftsmanship, skills acquired present both employment opportunities and enjoyment. All talents cultivated by this department help to form “a good today and a better tomorrow.”

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT STRIVES TO PREPARE ALL STUDENTS FOR FUTURE

In an attempt to train students for many various types of work, the Business Department set out to prepare all students, not only those who planned to work after graduation, but also those who planned to attend college. Courses such as typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, and business law offered practical training for daily application. Diligence in studies and application in gained knowledge helped students to prepare themselves for the future.

The air was brisk and biting. The wind howled over and through the stadium, stunning the crowd which had gathered, blankets and all, for Homecoming. The winning float, entitled "Salem Witch Trials," complimented the weather, with second and third places going to the Art Club and the FHA, respectively. Along with other festivities planned by Cydney Cherry and Lenny Vaughan, a banquet for the classes of 1920, 1946, and 1961, preceded the game. During half-time Lynn Strickland, escorted by her twin brother Reggie, was crowned Homecoming Queen by the principal, Mr. Walter T. H. Galliford, and Kris Dail was chosen Maid of Honor. A dance in the gym followed the game, with music by the New Directions.

“ideal seniors” selected as seventy - one superlatives

The class of '71 as in years past had the opportunity of choosing their outstanding classmates, as superlatives. The sixteen superlatives represent those seniors who excelled in their graduating class. There were some close races between candidates, showing that fellow peers were split in their opinions as to who were the “ideal Seniors”. After the superlatives were announced, many underclassmen were heard arguing about who would fill the shoes of these sixteen deserving seniors.

wednesday morning meetings provide nucleus of communication for national honor society

Hampered by a late start in organization and election of officers, and under the guidance of a new sponsor, the National Honor Society overcame setbacks to become the most active chapter at Churchland in recent years, while members strove to uphold the society's standards of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. A flurry of activities, including coat checks at home basketball games and at the Holly Ball, a newspaper drive, and a tutoring service, increased the chapter's scholarship fund while at the same time provided services for the school and community.

TOP REPRESENTATIVES OF JUNIOR CLASS SERVE AS MARSHALS DURING SCHOOL HOURS, EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

Early in the fall, twenty Juniors were chosen by the teachers to become the official "hosts and hostesses" of Churchland for the 1970-1971 school term. All juniors with a B average qualified, and from those the faculty chose twelve girls and eight boys whom they felt were honest, dependable, and displayed good manners. From the beginning of the year, the Marshals assumed their role of ushering during assemblies, concerts, and other school functions. However, their most frequent task was that of monitoring the halls during the lunch periods.

(top left) "HAPPINESS IS TAKING your first walk as Miss Churchland," thinks Kris Dail after her coronation. (top right) "That was a very funny answer, Miss Covington. Now for your humorous question," quips emcee Chuck Taylor during the question and answer session. (bottom) Calmly awaiting questioning from the judges are finalists Ann Branton, Debby Covington, Kris Dail, Connie Davis, and Daisy Natalio.

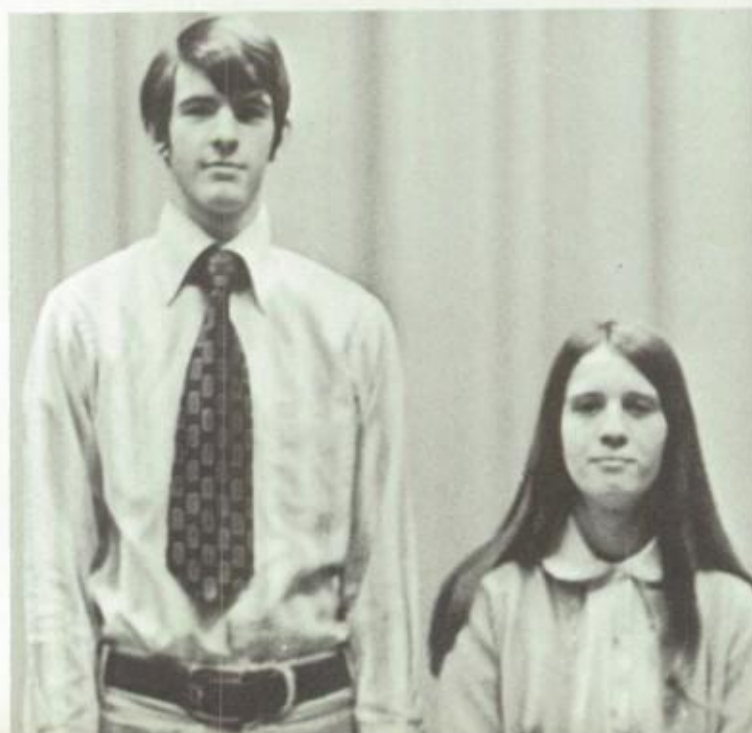

Amid the scene set with Snoopy and his "peanuts pals," 24 of Churchland's lovelies vied for the honor of Miss Churchland in the annual pageant sponsored by Churchland Tri-Hi-Y. The girls represented both the Junior and Senior classes and were presented in sportswear and evening wear by emcee Chuck Taylor. The panel of judges then faced the task of selecting five finalists who would be scored on personality questions. Twelve boys vied for the Mr. Churchland title—the winner selected by popular vote. Then the announcement was made. Connie Davis and Tom Savage were selected as first runners-up while Kris Dail and Reggie Strickland were chosen Mr. and Miss Churchland.

unprecedented number honored as merit finalists

In the fall, top seniors anxiously awaited the outcome of the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, taken during their junior year. Finally, in March, five amazed seniors learned that they had advanced to finalist status and were thus eligible for any number of scholarships offered by the Merit program. This number, unparalleled in the history of the program at Churchland, equaled the total number of finalists at CHS in all previous years.

Involvement in the worlds of sports, scholastics, music, government, politics, homemaking, and community service received its just rewards, as Churchland students found themselves caught in a whirlwind of activities, honors, and rewards. These ranged from honors within the realms of CHS (Football Trophy Winners and Scholastic Teams) and the local area (All-District Wrestlers and Optimist's Outstanding Teenagers), to the national level (National Merit Finalists and Presidential Classroom). The rewards earned created a special world of the "honored few," and it is these we honor.

Fighting the clock, Dramatics Club members worked hard to present their annual Festival Play, "The Rocking Horse Winner." This one-act play involved a young boy who tried desperately to win the affection of his mother, a cold-hearted, bitter person whose main concern was money. The son finds that he can predict the next race horse winner by riding his toy rocking horse and thus win fantastic amounts of money for his mother. In the end, however, he becomes progressively insane and exhaustion kills him. The hard work and long afternoon sessions paid off for the cast and student director, Brent Douglass, as the play made an excellent presentation in the festival competition.

Five years of hard work paid off as the "honor grads" assumed their rank in the graduating Class of '71. Thirty-five high ranking seniors distinguished themselves from the crowd by earning the privilege to wear gold tassels during commencement exercises. This bumper crop of honor graduates, as well as distinguishing themselves individually, distinguished the whole Class of 1971, as they represented the largest percentage of a class ever to graduate with honors from Churchland.

"22 for churchland" sponsor dances, promote school spirit

"1970-1971—A year of firsts." With the start of a new school year, the SCA attempted to fulfill this goal. The effectiveness can be partially attributed to the formation of the "22 for Churchland"—a group of prominent businessmen (wishing to remain anonymous). Throughout the year they sponsored dances, supported SCA projects and gave encouragement and advice as well. Room 112 became a busy place, as for the first time, the SCA had a room in which to operate. Truckers also received "music to dine by", as melodious sounds from the juke box filled the cafeteria each day. CHS is one of the few schools in Virginia that has this privilege.

juke - BOX BRINGS "rhythm and rock" to cafeteria

The SCA full council, composed of committee chairmen and homeroom representatives, led the way as Truckers strove to improve school and community relationships through various projects. The SCA's greatest achievement was that of increased school spirit. "Truckers will always be number one: we place second to no one," was the slogan as CHS attempted to become the WGH "High School of the year."

opinion poll becomes new trucker topic

With the belief that "two heads are better than one," this year's Trucker Topics staff was headed by co-editors Barbara Harrison and Lenny Vaughan. Each month the twenty journalists brought us juicy tidbits of gossip, record and movie reviews, feature articles, and, this year's innovation, the opinion poll. Approximately four hundred students subscribed to the newspaper, and ads from the business community provided additional funds. The newshounds were continuously sniffing out and uncovering items of interest to all.

Imitating mango pango birds, playing cowboys and Indians, drinking water of fire hydrants, and cheering with the cheerleaders were just a few of the bizarre acts that Dick Shea pledges had to do in the fall. These, along with selling donuts and doing chores for old members, kept them busy. Dick Shea Hi-Y activities included a beach party, financed with profits from donut sales.

Truckers Hi-Y continued its activities of past years, as members worked diligently on the club's Homecoming entry. Sandy Strickler helped the boys carry on Truckers' traditions as she became the Hi-Y sweetheart, adding "sugar and spice" to meetings, as well as hosting the Christmas party. As always, donut sales, pledges, and beach plans played an important role in keeping Truckers active.

Churchland Tri-Hi-Y found itself in full swing as members involved themselves in school and community activities. Hard work was displayed in a float and enthusiasm was shown on Halloween as the girls dressed in costumes, amusing the children at Maryview Hospital. Thanksgiving was highlighted by a dinner; at Christmas the club contributed to the Joy Fund and sponsored a needy family with canned goods. The selling of pens and the annual Miss Churchland Contest greatly boosted the treasury.

COOK - OUT FOR BOYS' HOME, one of many projects

Hard work, but lots of fun may best sum up the numerous activities of Connie Hemby Tri-Hi-Y. Holding a cookout for the Westhaven Boys' Home, giving a Thanksgiving basket to a family, and providing a party for a needy girl during the holiday season, were just a few of the many service projects performed. Nevertheless, time was also found for many extra interesting programs and events, such as exchanging presents with Heart Sisters on Valentine's Day and a guest speaker on the do's and don'ts of beauty. In the spring the Mother-Daughter banquet was held.

easter egg hunt highlights spring activities

Attempting once more to have their Homecoming float place first, Perrecta members worked diligently, only to have it destroyed by the wind before the game. School and community projects included cleaning seats of the CHS Auditorium and an Easter Egg Hunt at the Westhaven Boys' Home. A bake sale and donut sale were planned to finance Perrecta's beach party. To conclude their activities old members held the club's installation of officers.

MEMBERS DUB SUCCEDO "SISTERHOOD" TRI-HI-Y

Who has the least school spirit at CHS? Certainly not Succedo Tri-Hi-Y, as they won $5 for obtaining the most signatures for the WGH School Spirit Contest. Selling mums at Homecoming, donut sales, and candy sales financed Succedo.

Their service projects this year included a food and money drive at Christmas for the needy and campaigning for the passage of the Constitutional amendments. Other activities of the "Sisterhood" Tri-Hi-Y were a Fashion show and an ecology day.

"Do you believe it?" was the question Webb members asked themselves when their Homecoming float won first prize. Donut sales and bake sales served to finance Webb's activities. Service projects included visits to the Manning Home, a Thanksgiving dinner for an underprivileged family, and a Christmas party for the Wesley Child Care Center. Pajama parties, Heart Sisters week, a speaker on cosmetics, and a Fashion show highlighted their year.

trip to washington, d.c. highlights activities

Reorganized under a new name, the Science Club, formerly the Scientific Society, began its year amid a flurry of other activities. Films on pollution and guest speakers led the list of projects to stimulate interest in various areas. Later in the spring, a field trip to Washington, D.C., similar to that of last year, was made available to all interested science students by the Science Club. Through other various programs and projects, the Science Club set out to fulfill its purpose — to promote and develop student interest in scientific fields of study.

OBSERVATION OF SURGERY ON CLOSED-CIRCUIT t.v., chance to gain knowledge first-hand

This year the Surgeon's Club was established to activate an interest in general or specialized surgery. Through on-the-spot emergency room work and close observation of surgery on the closed-circuit T.V. at Portsmouth Naval Hospital, the club members were able to acquire knowledge first-hand. Trips to the Medical College of Virginia and Georgetown Medical Center, a series of speakers, and tours of area hospitals outlined plans.

formal mother-daughter banquet ends BUSY YEAR

"Busy" is the word that describes FHA members as they completed various activities, including bringing candy and dressing up for the children in Maryview Hospital, at Halloween. The club celebrated Christmas with a covered dish supper and pollyannas. Money-making projects included a rummage sale, a care wash, and selling candy and donuts. In the spring, members held a formal mother-daughter banquet, as well as an Easter egg hunt.

ART CLUB MEMBERS IMMORTALIZED WITH NAMES ENGRAVED IN CORNERSTONE OF TOWN CLOCK

The Art Club designed an Independence Day float for Homecoming which won second place and $15.

Its members also designed a scene for the Soroptimist Club which won second place in a Mid-City show. The club was awarded $25 and a scroll which is to be signed by all of its members and placed in the town clock's cornerstone. They also had presentations on artists or types of art, and demonstrations by local personnel on new techniques and ideas in art.

Dramatics club opens membership to interested students

The Thespian Troupe or Dramatics Club started the year with just one actual member from Thespian Troupe 1546. Normally a troupe's members are selected by the previous year's members, but being it was not in existence last year, anyone interested could join. The club prepared several one-act plays, one of which was presented for competition in the Virginia High School League or Festival Play. The troupe also presented a full-length play as a fund raising project.

This has been a pretty good year with a few exceptions. Remember all of the screwy times we've had in this class, and of course I know you wouldn't forget Miss Edwards or Mr White (hmm!)!! Well, I hope you have a great summer and maybe I'll see ya sometime - not here tho for sure! Be good and stay exactly the way you are! Don

Fun and games, linked with education, was the theme for this year's Spanish Club. Various projects kept members busy, in and out of school. The club sponsored two stuffed animal contests, in December and April, a car wash (Spanish style?), and had a wide variety of parties. Members found it an exciting and enjoyable experience, from the Christmas bash to the final fling, the spring banquet.

Starting the year with Sharon Wetherby's slide presentation of life in France, the French Club benefited from many interesting programs. Singing French carols, playing such games as bingo, and "name the presents", and eating delicious refreshments were all highlights of this year's Christmas party. A buffet dinner in the spring offered an array of French cuisine. Guest speakers and other activities helped to enlighten students and to promote the use of the French language.

EGG THROWING CONTEST CONCLUDES LATIN CLUB'S BIZARRE ANTICS

"It can't be! We just can't be those erudite students of the LIVING language, Latin!" But yes, as the first meeting commenced, members found themselves performing strange and bizarre antics. However, this is nothing unusual, for such a unique club devotes all its time to fun and foolishness in addition to "garbing" itself in the traditional white regalia. What club celebrates Saturnalia with the exchanging of some gifts that were received last year, or creates crazy "hearts" with "ego armo te" inscribed, or even throws eggs during a most festive time of the year — the banquet . . .? only the Latin Club.

monogrammers impose STRICT DRESS CODE on pledges

The Monogram Club, comprised of girls who have received letters for their athletic ability in cheerleading, basketball, hockey, or gymnastics, again started the year off by initiating new members with a very strict dress code. As in past years, the club sponsored the selling of programs.

REORGANIZATION OF VARSITY "C" BRINGS NEW EXISTENCE TO OLD CLUB

With a reorganization for the 70-71 school year the Varsity "C" Club began a new approach to an old idea. The club offered membership to any CHS boy lettering in a sport for his athletic ability. Pledges brightened the year for members as they performed menial chores as mowing lawns, distributing candy, and washing cars for their big brothers. The members of the club were distinguished by their letter jackets — a reward for success.

VICA transports orphaned boys to basketball games

A wide variety of activities, such as filling a Christmas food basket for a needy family, Taking orphaned boys to local basketball games, the VICA state convention, and an employer-employee banquet, helped develop the leadership abilities and good citizenship practices of VICA members. Through a profitable array of employment opportunities members increased both their mental and material wealth.

d.e.'s vote campaign promotes patriotism

The DE Club strove to develop leadership abilities relating directly to classroom instruction.

Throughout the year the club participated in district, state, and national DE competitive events.

Nevertheless, the busy members still found time to aid the community and school. They sponsored a "get out and vote" campaign in the fall of the year, and during Christmas they sold candles in order to boost their treasury funds.

Once again, the DE Club sponsored the CHS door decorating contest during Christmas in order to build up student involvement.

The year ended with an employer-employee banquet.

Buttons, posters, tags boost spirit at chs

Behind the doors of the art room the Pep Club met in secret sessions to produce hall posters and pep tags for the different sports. From these occult meetings it was not unusual to see a tiger's glaring eyes staring at you at the top of some stairway. Boosters buttons, sold for a quarter, were ordered early in the summer in anticipation of increased spirit for football season. In past years, the club has always had a surprising number of outsiders show up for the group picture, so the officers this year decided to sell Pep Club member buttons to the students that paid their dues. This proved a successful method of determining true members as well as boosting the treasury.

The year closed with a fun stay at the beach Memorial Day weekend.

In January the cadet corps sponsored a dance for all cadets and their dates. The full ROTC company was seen every Thursday morning in front of the school for morning colors.

music takes new direction as mr. dill assumes leadership

Under new leadership for the first time in 18 years, the band and its director, Mr. Dill, prepared a full slate of activities for the coming year. The first and main activity of the band was to maintain its standard of excellence despite its diminished size, during halftime festivities. This same excellence was shown through increased participation in the Regional Band. With the conclusion of the football season, a series of concerts was planned. In December the band and choral departments combined their talents for the annual Christmas Concert. During March, the "Pops" Concert, the winter concert, and an assembly kept band members busy. Activities came to a close with the spring concert held in May.

In order for the band to take part in various extra-curricular activities, the Band Parents Association operated the concession stand during the football season. They also met once a month to discuss band projects and activities. Once again, the band proved to be one of the more spirited organizations at Churchland, through its participation in assemblies and concerts. Despite being smaller in number, the group increased its representation in the Regional Band, which was held January 29-31. Devoted members strove to perfect their musical abilities through early morning practices before school.

introduction of fine arts course offers students opportunity to develop individual talents

Through numerous excursions, the Villagers brought widespread renown to CHS. Trips included visits to Washington, D.C., Greenville, N.C., Richmond, Va., and Wilmington, N.C. These enterprising performers executed routines featuring dancing as well as singing. The newest course at Churchland, the Fine Arts Class offered students with outstanding individual talents an opportunity to receive instruction in the fine arts.

Through small in number, they enhanced many of the choral performances by providing scenery. A program in January, entitled "An Evening of Fine Arts," enabled the students to display their musical talents.

songsters put “sunshine in their souls,” participate in lions’ benefit

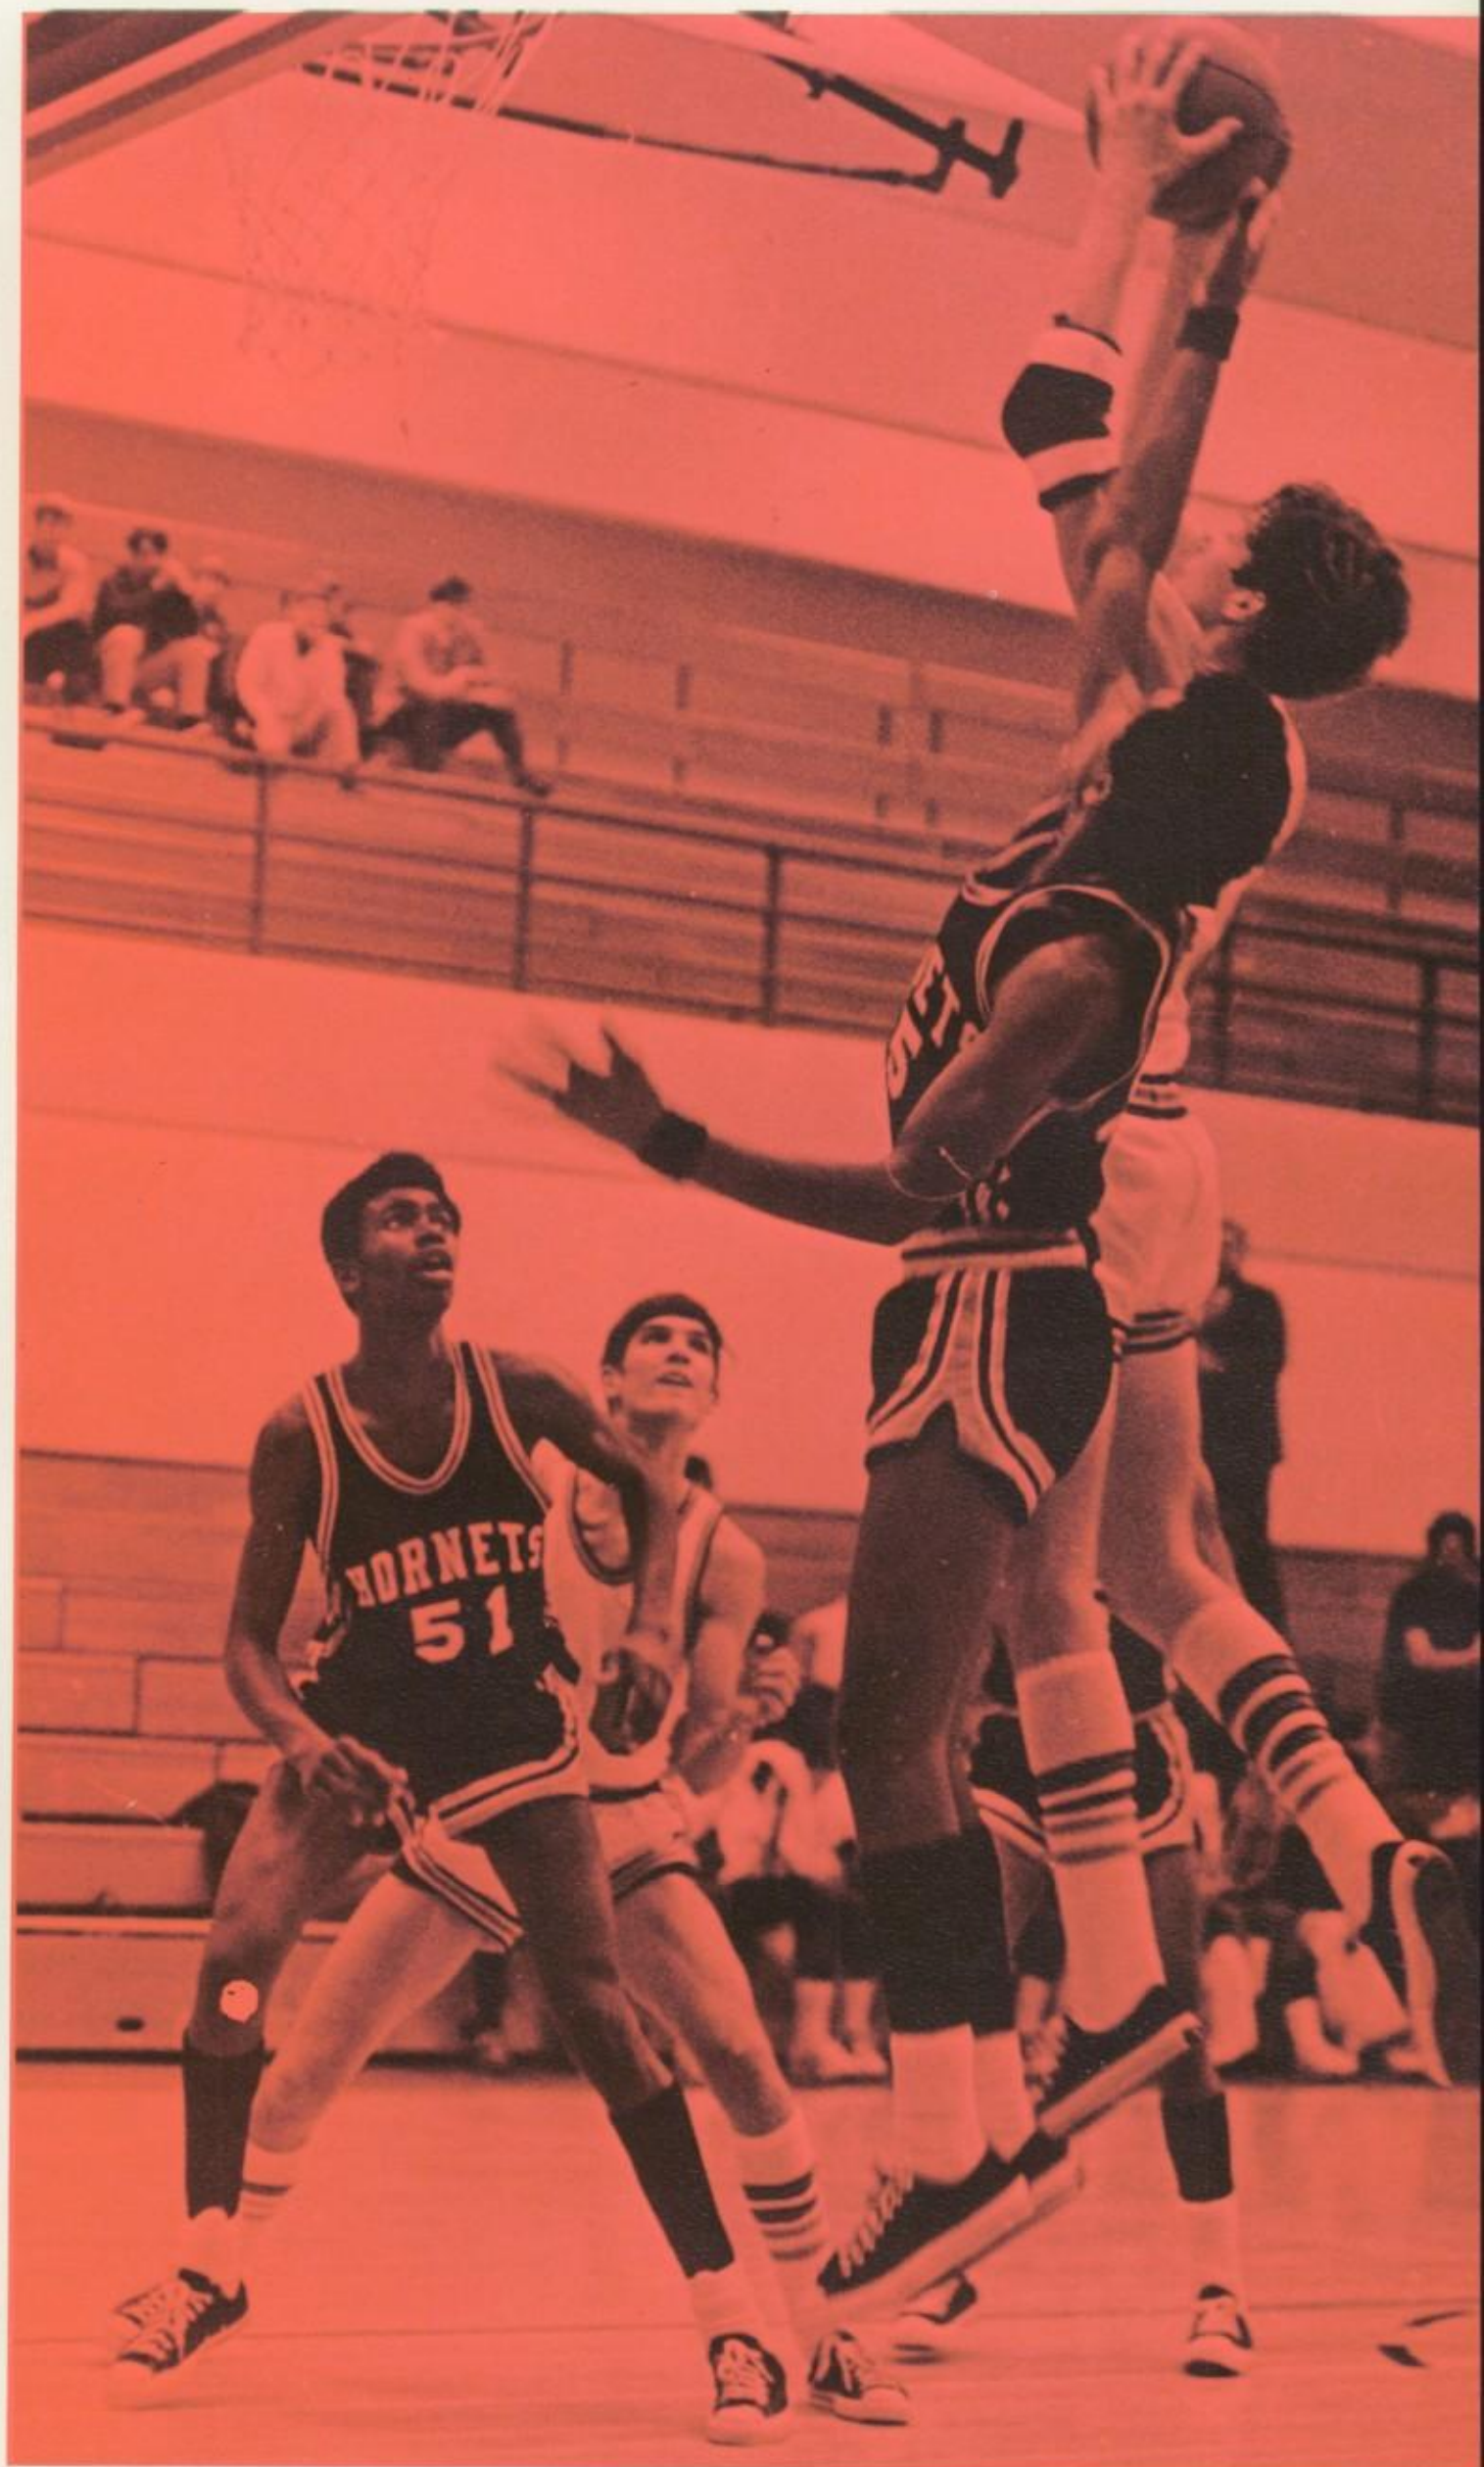

As the curtain rose on the Lancaster Sing-a-Long, so began a busy year for the four choruses. Putting “sunshine in their souls,” they helped raise money for the blind by participating in the Portsmouth Lions’ Benefit Show. The annual Christmas Concert and Christmas Assembly hurled chorus members into the Yuletide spirit. The songsters ended the year on the right note with the production of the spring musical, and the annual Spring Concert and chorus party.

sports

The story of Varsity Football at CHS in 1970 was not one of joy, but one of courage. Although somewhat disheartened, the team fought hard to save face after several embarrassing defeats. Younger members and lack of speed hindered the squad; however, the season produced several outstanding players. Ralph Robertson and Aaron Harper were leading ground-gainers in the Trucker Offense aided by strong blocking from linemen Jimmy Grimstead and Ricky Gay. Sophomore Merle Henkel did a fine job as rookie quarterback for the varsity.

Although not a winning one, the Junior Varsity football team enjoyed its best record in three years. Coached by Leon Potter and Bob Jaronczyk, the team wrapped up the season with a 2-4 record, beating rival Western Branch and Oscar Smith. Although the team received help from the second and third string varsity players at the beginning of the season, the squad performed on its own during the last several games. The experience gained by the players produced a number of promising individuals who may prove helpful to varsity football in the future.

In its second year at CHS, the Hockey Team played only two regular season games, both against Wilson. Next, they proceeded to William and Mary College to participate in the Tidewater Allied Hockey Tournament. During both the regular season and the tournament play, the team was led by the aggressive playing of Susan and Lynn Wilkes and the skilled defense of Debbi Lambdin.

GAIN ORANGE megaphones, spring uniforms

As always, creating spirit through various activities was the main objective of the Varsity Cheerleaders. In promoting team spirit the girls decorated locker rooms before games and presented the players with pep tags, toys, or candy. Money-making projects involved much of the girls' time, with a car wash, candle, and ZIP Code Book sale. These enabled the girls to buy new orange megaphones and uniforms for the spring sport season. Other features included a pep rally held at the Junior High to increase Trucker spirit and a cookout given by the girls for the Varsity football team.

underclasses equally presented as 5 freshmen, 5 sophomores lead junior varsity spirit

This year was an active one for the Junior Varsity cheerleaders. Summer practices were held at which time the girls created and practiced cheers. Throughout football and basketball season, hall signs, player's tags, and assorted goodies were made for the games. Also these girls rode on decorated bikes while distributing candy in the Homecoming parade. At all other Varsity home football games the J.V.'s sold programs and led cheers and spirit in the stands. A first this year was the privilege of cheering at wrestling matches. In addition, their new personalized letters and white and black sweaters provided a new look for the 10 spirit boosters.

workshop for JR. high students new aspect of gymnastic program

A year round program filled with an abundance of activities meant lots of practice and new experience for the members of the gymnastics team. In the fall, lessons of the fundamentals of gymnastics were conducted by the team for interested junior high students. Also five Churchland gymnasts gained new experience by participating in a statewide clinic held at Longwood College. The girls competed in the Amateur Athletic Union in the late winter months along with the V.H.S.L. regional meet, held February 20th. The aquisition of a buck and a mini-tramp added to the stunts which the team performed.

FOUR RETURNING STARTERS STRENGTHEN TRUCKER ATTACK FOR 70-71 season

The Trucker Varsity Basketball team attack was led by four returning starters, including captain Gary O'Neal. Bob Anderson, Churchland's top scorer, was rated sixth in the district standings. The Truckers suffered close losses against Crestwood and Kennedy early in the season but came back to beat Wilson in the conference game. Playing on their new home court at the Junior High, the team upset Great Bridge to assure a place in the Southeastern district tournament.

The 1971 Junior Varsity Basketball team, strengthened by ten returning players, was led by high scorer Ralph Yost. For the first time in many years, the team was able to practice after school due to the use of the new Junior High gym. Even though lack of height hindered the team throughout the season, they always showed hustle and determination in practice as well as in their games. After losing to Wilson in overtime, they climaxed the season by defeating arch-rival Western Branch.

Having worked together for three years, the thirteen veterans of the Truckerettes, with the additional help of three new team members, approached their season with an optimistic attitude. A new experience was the use of five man rules during the Virginia Wesleyan game. Although the Truckerettes had never played with this ruling, they obtained their first victory. The enormous spirit and desire to win was led by the tri-captains, Sherry Buchanan, Gaye Williamson, and Prince Carr. Likewise, with their strong defense and productive offense the Jr. Truckerettes compiled a winning season. Composed of many young rookies, these girls look toward a bright future.

Anyone venturing into CHS's halls after school between January and March found the passageways filled with hurdles and runners, as the indoor track team invaded the halls every day at the end of school to run, exercise, and practice for their individual events. The team worked at a disadvantage this year, as the facilities at Tidewater Community College were unavailable. As a result, indoor track became indoor-outdoor, with hurdle and sprint events dashing down the halls, and long distance and field events braving the cold weather. Thus, for the first time, an "indoor" track meet with Great Bridge was canceled because of the weather.

In 1970, the Trucker golf team continued to place high in district competition. A tough opponent to all, the team completed the season with a shining 6-2 record. Coached by Benn Griffin, the Truckers placed second in the district and again took second place honors in the district tournament.

With only two returning starters, the 1971 golf team looked to new talent for its continuation in the race for district dominance.

Lack of experience proves detrimental to '70 track

Lack of depth and inexperience hindered the efforts of '70 track team. Even though they were disheartened by a close loss to Deep Creek in their first meet, the team always strove to compete with a winning attitude. Nevertheless, their arduous efforts produced no victories against stiff competition. Despite the winless season, Bobby Soderquist, captain of the '70 track team, led the team during the regular season and also represented the team in the regional meet.

collin's diamond men succeed in producing winning season

Talent and hard practice were the two main factors producing a winning season for the 1970 baseball team. It was a well known fact throughout the school that Wayne Collins, in his second year of coaching, ran the team considerably in practice. However, the hard running was not in vain as the team earned an 8-5 record clinching third place in the district. Ronnie Albertson led the team in pitching as Terry Rivenbark held the highest batting average.

the class of seventy - four

Being the lowest of the classes for one year is tough, but being baby Truckers for two years is hard to take. However, the frosh took it well in their stride. The Class of '74 is the largest and most spirited class ever to roam the halls of CHS, and they added much to the activities of the school. Their faces were seen in abundance at clubs and school organizations. These lowest-lower classmen faced their problems with an enthusiasm unsurpassed by classes before them. A candy and donut sale greatly boosted their treasury so that they could plan activities. Freshmen girls added their soft?, quiet?, voices to the roar at first lunch pep rallies. On Spirit Day, orange and black attire set the freshmen off from the rest. They started the year with many dreams; although some did not become reality, it was not through lack of trying hard. By the end of the year, there was no doubt that the class of '74 was a big link in the chain of Trucker life—a world within a world.

the class of seventy - three

After being a part of CHS's family for two years the class of 73 finally achieved their title of upper-lower classmen. The class's motto, "Let women lead the way," was retained again this year as all the executive positions were held by females. The year was started off by holding class meetings and collecting dues. "Who's going to bring the cupcakes and brownies; who's going to bring the chocolate chip cookies?" were familiar phrases heard as "Sophs" volunteered their services during their bake sale to boost the class treasury. The highlight of the class of 73's "second of four" was their participation in spirit week as "Country Cousins." Throughout the school year strong representation in various clubs showed the diversified participation of the class. Also again, Julius Caesar helped to add to Sophomore literary knowledge. However, the experience gained and service rendered made the year a worthwhile cause and prepared the class for their upcoming Junior duties.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Prince Carr—secretary, Bucky Baker—vice president, Danny Reitz—president, Audrey Whitlock—treasurer.

the class of seventy - two

Well Juniors, we finally made it to the upper class! Can you believe it? '72 is just a year away! Along with the prestige of being a lower-upperclassman, a world of new and different responsibilities evolved, as well as a new sense of authority and leadership. However, time for honors and fun was set aside during the school year—on October 9, 20 Marshals were chosen who enjoy the special privilege of leaving their pre-lunch class five minutes early to monitor the halls. "Gross! How ugly!" were the comments heard on "Junior Grease Day"—a day reserved for Juniors during Spirit Week. Spirit in "the class" was highlighted this year with Junior girls outnumbering the Seniors on the varsity cheering squad 7-4. On Nov. 19, the mighty Juniors beat the Seniors 14-8 in the 3rd. Annual Powder Puff Game. Susan (O. J.) Heely led the way to victory, scoring all. But as successful as we are, the RINGS, symbolizing our pride and importance in C. H. S., added the final touch to a perfect year.

upset! juniors jump to victory in 3rd annual powder puff game

Well,
you're a real great kid and it's been real having you goof off in homeroom. Always keep your funny personality. Be good, and stay sweet. (Of course) I hope to see ya next year in some of my classes. See ya around this summer. Love ya, Brenda

Mel,
Well, finally
this whole stupid
year is almost over! (yea)
I try not to remember Mrs Kaufman's class, it's not too good for your health,
Have fun next year, I won't be here
to watch, so write to me Deb.

spot color, national pictures help create new trucker world

Assembling last spring to organize for the 1971 Trucker, the eight returning members of the '70 staff learned the aftereffect of "over-seniorization" as there was just enough manpower to fill the ranks of the four section editors, business manager, and editors-in-chief. The selection of eleven new staff members helped complete organization of the staff and gave it a sounder basis on which to proceed with the task at hand—the production of the 1971 Trucker.

The nineteen staffers spent many hot summer hours collecting ads, with $2534. the profitable result. With the opening of school, the staff's work began in earnest. Meetings in the early fall dealt with the editorial plans and cover design. This design, symbolizing the individual's involvement in groups and his worlds, along with the selection of orange and black for the cover colors, gave the staff a more tangible goal for which to put forth its efforts.

And then the rush began. From the struggle to take pictures for the ad section and to find class snaps to the race to take spring sports pictures and to find last year's baseball scores, was a madhouse, which afterward seemed a nightmarish blur. The deadlines of December 5, January 15, February 14, and March 14, rolled around quickly, much to the dismay of hurried staffers. Drawing layouts, writing copy, cropping and identifying pictures, typing captions, writing headlines, proofreading—redrawing layouts, rewriting copy, recropping pictures, retyping captions, rewriting headlines, more proofreading. . . all added up to many hours, often late hours, of work, work, work.

Without the leadership and guidance of Mr. Robert Moore as advisor for the first time in twelve years, the staffers were forced to rely on the tri-editors, Margaret Riggins, Cydney Cherry, and Ralph Robertson, and the first sophomore business manager, Danny Brenner. These executives, in turn, took their unsolvable problems to Mr. Walter T.H. Galliford, who somehow always found a solution.

Though plagued with unexpected problems, the year was not without its compensations. An unused classroom in which to work was a great asset, and with the hard work came some unforgetably good times. The use of spot color in opening section and on divider pages served as an "upper" for a downhearted staff and helped give a new look to the 1971 Trucker. A year ago, the impossible dream, the 1971 Trucker became a "better-than-ever-imagined" reality.

The 1971 Trucker staff would like to publicly thank—Wide World Photos, The Virginian Pilot-Ledger Star, and Rep. G. William Whitehurst for special photos appearing in opening section; Smith and Welton's for senior pictures; Mr. Jim Saine of Delmar Studios for club and class pictures; Mr. Robert Wentz for cover pictures; photographers Mr. Richard Bruckse, Brent Douglass, and Mr. Jack Headen; Mr. John Perry of Hunter Publishing Company; Mr. Walter T.H. Galliford; and last but certainly not least, all our advertisers.

Melanie,

What a great year this has been being in shorthand with you. You really have a great personality
and should go far in life

Always,

Brenda Hythe

Mel-
 I have learned something about you
 this year - you always have better luck with guys than I do. If you weren't my friend, I'd probably hate you. Oh, well I can always go into a convent
 join the Air Force. Have fun this summer!

Melanie,
 I will be glad to get away from these clicks. Won't you!
 Stay as fat as you are + have a super-duper-nento-bosso-summer!
 Keith Warrick

melanie,
 So a real sweet, cute girl. I wish you the best of luck in the future. I hope you have a very successful
 senior year.
 Paula

Melanie,
 It was great having ya in homeroom and in history. We did some crazy things in history. Have a great summer,
 I'll see ya next year. Be good and don't do anything
 I wouldn't do.
 Loads of luck in the future, you'll need
 it.
 Friends,
 Nancy Webb
 Put a good love
 that good stuff.

any,
it's been great
knowing you, I wish you the best of luck
in all you do. I wish think we finally made it seniors! I have fun this summer and be good.
☺ orzie

Melanie,
I've enjoyed
knowing you
this year. I hope to get to know
you better.

Melanie ~
Just think, next year we will be seniors. Wow! It has been fun being in shorthand with you this year. Best of luck in all you do. Have a fun
summer! Brenda
